We have invited the social justice agencies from the mainline Christian churches to lead workshop presentations and discussion of the "burning issues" for social justice in 2008.

Issues of children and families, environmental justice, poverty, international food crisis, housing affordability and social hazards are some of the issues likely to be covered.

A political panel will conclude the day, where politicians from the parliamentary parties will be invited to discuss the social issues with the forum participants.

Register for catering purposes please in advance at admin@nzccss.org.nz

A light lunch is included and we welcome any koha/donation towards costs of the day
