About CWM

Established in 1977 out of the former London Missionary Society, the Council for World Mission (CWM) is today a worldwide partnership of 31 churches in mission representing 15 million Christian believers spanning six regions across the globe. With a commitment to mission and in partnership through CWM, the member churches support one another by sharing the resources of money, people, skills, insights and experiences. CWM's work is directed by the Trustee Body comprising representatives from all member churches as elected by an Assembly of the member churches once every three years.

Staff and Structure

The Secretariat is headed by the General Secretary, who is also the Chief Executive Officer of the organisation. The Executive Secretaries (Empowerment and Training, Justice and Witness, Reflection and Research, and Mission Enabling), Finance Secretary, Communications Secretary and Deputy General Secretary are directly accountable to him/her.

Staffing structure and job content of all posts in CWM are subject to decisions by the General Secretary, the Officers Group and the Trustee Body. Flexibility and collaborative working are requirements of all CWM post-holders.

The respective job description should be considered as a guideline to the tasks and responsibilities of the post-holder and does not represent a comprehensive definition of the role and its expectations. Details are subject to change and expansion.
